

philippine studies

Ateneo de Manila University • Loyola Heights, Quezon City • 1108 Philippines

Contributors

Philippine Studies vol. 55, no. 3 (2007): 413–414

Copyright © Ateneo de Manila University

Philippine Studies is published by the Ateneo de Manila University. Contents may not be copied or sent via email or other means to multiple sites and posted to a listserv without the copyright holder's written permission. Users may download and print articles for individual, noncommercial use only. However, unless prior permission has been obtained, you may not download an entire issue of a journal, or download multiple copies of articles.

Please contact the publisher for any further use of this work at philstudies@admu.edu.ph.

<http://www.philippinestudies.net>

Contributors

Warwick Anderson, M.D., Ph.D., is research professor in the History Department and the Centre for Values, Ethics and the Law in Medicine, University of Sydney, New South Wales 2006, Australia. Until 2007 he was Robert Turell Professor of Medical History and Population Health, Professor of the History of Science, and Chair of the Department of Medical History and Bioethics at the University of Wisconsin-Madison. He is the author of The Cultivation of Whiteness: Science, Health and Racial Destiny in Australia (2002, 2003, 2006) and Colonial Pathologies: American Tropical Medicine, Race, and Hygiene in the Philippines (2006, 2007). Johns Hopkins University Press will publish The Collectors of Lost Souls: Kuru and the Creation of Value in Science in 2008. He was awarded the Frederick Burkhardt Fellowship (2005–2006) and a fellowship from the John Simon Guggenheim Foundation (2007–2008). <whanderson@med.wisc.edu>

Philip Joseph Holden is associate professor in the Department of English Language and Literature, National University of Singapore, Kent Ridge, Singapore 117570. He is the author of books on Somerset Maugham, Hugh Clifford, and has coedited volumes on Chinese transnationalism and sexuality in imperial literature, as well as several journal articles on Singapore literature, nationalist autobiography, and literature in the transition from colonialism to the foundation of the postcolonial nation-state. His most recent book, Autobiography and Decolonization: Modernity, Masculinity and the Nation-State, will be published by the University of Wisconsin Press in 2008. At present he is working, in collaboration with Rajeev Patke, on a literary history of Southeast Asian writing in English. <ellhpj@nus.edu.sg>

Rosalina Palanca-Tan is associate professor in the Department of Economics, School of Social Sciences, Ateneo de Manila University, Loyola Heights, Quezon City 1008, Philippines. She was director of the Japanese Studies Program, Ateneo de Manila, from 1996 to 2004. She obtained her Ph.D. in Economics from Sophia University in Tokyo, Japan. In 2004 she was visiting research fellow at the Institute of Environmental Studies, University of Tokyo; and in 2005 she was a postdoctoral fellow at the Environmental Economics Unit of Gothenburg University, Sweden. She has written and published articles on environmental economics and Philippine-Japan economic relations. <rtan@ateneo.edu>

Vicente Angel S. Ybiernas is consultant to a Canadian research company. He obtained his BA degree in History from the University of the Philippines-Diliman in 1996, where he is on indefinite leave from his graduate studies. He has taught for five years at the University of the Philippines-Diliman and for another five years at the University of Asia and the Pacific. His research interests focus on Philippine economic history during the American period, but recently he has begun to study Filipino migrants in Canada. <v_ybiernas@yahoo.com>