

Contributors

JOSE S. ARCILLA, S.J., is the archivist of the Philippine Jesuit Province, and associate professor in the History Department, Ateneo de Manila University. DOREEN G. FERNANDEZ is professor in the English Department and chairman of the Department of Communication Arts, Ateneo de Manila University. She has authored numerous articles and works on Philippine culture.

THEODORE FRIEND was formerly president of Swarthmore College. He is now the president of the Eisenhower Exchange Fellowships, Inc. in Philadelphia.

RICHARD C. GARDNER is professor of Psychology in the University of Western Ontario, Canada. He has authored several studies on the role of ethnic stereotypes in communication.

M. COVARRUBIAS JAMIR has written articles on art and architecture for several publications here and abroad. She is working on a book on Philippine colonial furniture during the Spanish period.

MARDONIO M. LAO is an associate professor of history and acting dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, Central Mindanao University, Bukidnon.

RENATO Y. PABLO is supervisor of the Health Care Research Unit, Department of Psychiatry, Calgary General Hospital, Canada. He has done some field studies on ethnic groups in the Philippines.

WILLIAM HENRY SCOTT, educated in Yale, Columbia and the University of Santo Tomas, is a lay missionary of the Philippine Episcopal Church. He is well-known for his writings on the mountain people of Northern Luzon.

LOURDES H. VIDAL is a Ph.D. candidate in Literature at the University of the Philippines and assistant professor in the Department of English, Ateneo de Manila University.