

Contributors

NENITA ESCASA is assistant professor of the department of Pilipino, Ateneo de Manila University, and has translated works in Southeast Asian Literature.

SUSAN EVANGELISTA is an associate professor of the department of English, and holder of the Donelan Chair in Humanities. She has a Ph. D. in Philippine Studies from the University of the Philippines.

DOREEN G. FERNANDEZ is professor in the English department, director of Japanese Studies Program, and acting director of Interdisciplinary Studies Program, Ateneo de Manila University. She has authored numerous articles and works on Philippine culture; among her more recent is In Performance (Manila, 1981).

RENATO FERNANDEZ is an instructor in anthropology and social sciences at the College of Human Sciences, Saint Louis University, Baguio City. He is the curator of the S.L.U. Museum of Arts and Culture.

JOSEPH A. GALDON, S.J., is an associate editor of this journal, and chairman of the Ateneo's Interdisciplinary Studies department.

ERNESTO HIZON is presently studying law, and at the same time completing his M.A. in Literature at the Ateneo de Manila University. He plans a thesis on the English and Pampango fiction of Zoilo Galang.

EDUARDO HONTIVEROS, S.J., is professor of theology at Loyola School of Theology and at College of Arts and Sciences, Ateneo de Manila University. He holds an S.T.D. from the Gregorian University, Rome.

FLORENTINO H. HORNEADO received his Ph.D. in literature from the University of Santo Tomas, and is chairman of the department of Pilipino in the Ateneo de Manila University. He is book review editor of this journal.

REYNALDO C. ILETO is on leave from the department of History, University of the Philippines in order to write his third book, a southern Tagalog social history. This year, he is a Visiting Research Fellow at the Australian National University.

ROBERT KAPLAN is a professor of linguistics at the University of Southern California. A Ph.D. in English, he has published a number of books in linguistics and language teaching. At present he is the general editor of the annual international review, Applied Linguistics.