

philippine studies

Ateneo de Manila University • Loyola Heights, Quezon City • 1108 Philippines

Contributors

Contributors to Volume 53 Number 2 & 3: 2005

Philippine Studies vol. 53, no.2&3 (2005): 449–456

Copyright © Ateneo de Manila University

Philippine Studies is published by the Ateneo de Manila University. Contents may not be copied or sent via email or other means to multiple sites and posted to a listserv without the copyright holder's written permission. Users may download and print articles for individual, noncommercial use only. However, unless prior permission has been obtained, you may not download an entire issue of a journal, or download multiple copies of articles.

Please contact the publisher for any further use of this work at philstudies@admu.edu.ph.

<http://www.philippinestudies.net>
Fri June 30 13:30:20 2008

Contributors

GÉMINO H. ABAD, poet, fictionist, and literary critic, is professor emeritus at the University of the Philippines.

MILA D. AGUILAR, poet in English, Pilipino, and Ilonggo, and essayist, teaches in the Department of English and Comparative Literature, University of the Philippines. Her sixth collection of poems, Journey: An Autobiography in Verse (1964–1995), was published in 1996.

JUANIYO ARCELLANA, poet and fictionist, is an editor at the Philippine Star. He has published two books of poetry and short fiction.

ROMULO P. BAQUIRAN JR., poet, teaches in the College of Arts and Letters, University of the Philippines, and is a director of the Unyon ng mga Manunulat sa Pilipinas. His Mga Tula ng Paglusong (1992) and Onyx (2003) won Palanca and National Book of the Year awards.

DONNA L. BATONGBACAL, poet and essayist, is a psychologist at the Ateneo Center for Psychological and Educational Assessment. Her works have appeared in, among others, the U.S.-based The Literary Review and the anthologies Blessings, Blessings at Work and at Play, and Magis: Writings on Faith, Joy and Love.

HERMINIO S. BELTRAN JR., poet, is director for literary arts of the Cultural Center of the Philippines. The author of two trilingual books of poetry, Bayambang (1991) and Lemlunay (2003), he has won awards from the Palanca, Institute of National Language, Palihang Aurelio Tolentino, and the National Commission for Culture and the Arts.

JAIME JESUS U. BORLAGDAN, poet, graduated from the University of the Philippines-Diliman with a degree in English Studies, major in creative writing. A farmer and Rilke fan, he now writes in Bikol.

LUIS CABALQUINTO, poet, writes in Bikol, Tagalog, and English. Moon over Magarao, his fifth poetry collection, was published in 2004. He resides in Manhattan, New York, but writes mostly in his natal Magarao, Camarines Sur.

GODE CALLEJA, poet, resides in Ottawa, Canada, and edits Burak, an Dabon Panrawitdawit, a poetry international serial in the Bikol language. He has published books of poetry.

JOSE WENDELL P. CAPILI, poet and essayist, is a Ph.D. candidate at the Australian National University and an assistant professor at the University of the Philippines-Diliman. He has won awards from Palanca, the Cultural Center of the Philippines, and the University of the Philippines, and several international fellowships. His works include A Madness of Birds (1998), Bloom and Memory (2002), and Mabuhay to Beauty! (2003).

NONON VILLALUZ CARANDANG, fictionist, teaches literature, Filipino, and the humanities at De La Salle University. His works have appeared in various anthologies. Angkan ni Eba (2005) is his first book.

EUGENIO R. CORPUS III, poet, graduated from Mapua Institute of Technology with a degree in computer engineering. He works for QM Technologies in New South Wales, Australia. Some of his works can be read online in Reflection Magazine and Makata Magazine. He also writes song lyrics, which are posted in ItsOnlyWords.com.

CONCHITINA CRUZ, poet, is assistant professor in creative writing at the University of the Philippines-Diliman. She received a Master's degree in Writing from the University of Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on a Fulbright grant. Her poems have appeared in Mid-American Review and Indiana Review.

MA. ASSUNTA C. CUYEGKENG, poet, obtained her doctorate in chemistry from the University of Regensburg, Germany. A teacher by vocation, she has taught at the Ateneo de Manila University for almost twenty-two years. She writes technical articles, translates Rilke, and edits the science and engineering edition of the Loyola Schools Review.

JOSE Y. DALISAY JR., who writes fiction and nonfiction, teaches English and creative writing at the University of the Philippines, where he has served as chair of the English department and vice president for public affairs. He has published twelve books. He has been a Hawthornden, David TK Wong, and Rockefeller fellow.

JUN DE LA ROSA, poet, is a member of peaks[^], a creative writing organization. His works have been published in The Philippines Free Press, Graphic, Panorama, the UP Likhaan Book of Poetry and Fiction, and a few international literary journals.

RICARDO M. DE UNGRIA, poet, is chancellor of the University of the Philippines in Mindanao, a member of the Committee on Literary Arts of the National Commission on Culture and the Arts, and president of the Davao Writers Guild. Pidgin Levitations: Poetic/Chroma Texts 1981–1989 is his latest book of poetry.

ALAIN RUSS DIMZON, poet, teaches at the Special Program for the Arts of the Iloilo National High School and writes for The Visayas Examiner and Panay News. He has translated literary and technical works and presidential speeches from English to Hiligaynon. He has long been engaged in micro-silvi-orchard farming.

GILDA CORDERO-FERNANDO is a multiawarded writer, publisher, and producer of theatrical shows. Constantly reinventing herself, she has recently ventured into watercolor painting.

REGGY C. FIGER, poet, teaches at the Far Eastern University and is a Ph.D. Communication student at the University of the Philippines-Diliman. He is a freelance writer and researcher, and also a part-time stage actor.

LUIS H. FRANCIA, poet, teaches at New York University's Asian/Pacific/American Program and Institute. His works include Eye of the Fish: A Personal Archipelago, winner of the 2002 PEN Open Book and the 2002 Asian American Writers' awards. Museum of Absences (2004) is his most recent book.

JOSE MARIO C. FRANCISCO, S.J., poet, teaches theology, philosophy, and literature at the Loyola School of Theology and Ateneo de Manila University. He holds the Gasson Chair for 2005–2006 at Boston College.

CRISTINA PANTOJA HIDALGO, writer of fiction and creative nonfiction, teaches literature and creative writing at the University of the Philippines-Diliman, where she is vice president for public affairs and has served as director of the Institute of Creative Writing and the University of the Philippines Press. She has published more than twenty books and received numerous awards.

SID GOMEZ HILDAWA, poet, visual artist, and architect, is manager of the Visual, Literary, and Media Arts Department of the Cultural Center of the Philippines, and a member of the Alon poetry collective. He is pursuing a Ph.D. Literature degree at De La Salle University.

JOY ICAYAN, who writes fiction occasionally, is currently a psychology student at the University of the Philippines-Diliman.

NEAL IMPERIAL, poet, is director of the Pacific and the South Asia divisions of the Department of Foreign Affairs. He has served as consul in Vancouver, Canada, and was head of the political section of the Philippine embassy in Jakarta, Indonesia, during the eventful years 1998 to 2000.

ARKAYE KIERULF, poet, is a senior chemistry student at the Ateneo de Manila University. He has been a fellow of two national writers' workshops (Ateneo de Manila and University of the Philippines), and a recipient of the Loyola Schools Award for the Arts.

JOHN LABELLA, poet, is pursuing doctoral studies in English at Princeton University. His Bachelor's and Master's degrees in Literature are from the Ateneo de Manila University. His poems have won prizes from the Palanca and the Philippines Free Press Literary Awards.

NICOLAS LACSON, fictionist, graduated from the Ateneo de Manila University in 2005 with a Bachelor's degree in the Humanities, magna cum laude. He is a recipient of the Mulry Award for Literary Excellence, the Loyola Schools Award for the Arts, and the Raul Locsin Award for Student Journalism.

GABRIELA LEE, poet, fictionist, and editor, graduated from the University of the Philippines-Diliman with a degree in creative writing. She has been a fellow for poetry in English in three national writers' workshops: University of the Philippines, Iligan, and Dumaguete.

ELYNIA S. MABANGLO, poet, is full professor at the University of Hawaii and coordinator of the Filipino and Philippine Literature Program. In 1995 she was the first Filipina to receive the Palanca Hall of Fame Award. Two of her poetry books won the National Book Award: Mga Libam ni Pinay (1990), and Mesa Para sa Isa (2003).

REAGAN ROMERO MAIQUEZ, poet and fictionist, teaches Filipino and literature at the Mapua Institute of Technology. He was editor and marketing director of Silangan Shimbun, a Filipino broadsheet in Japan. He is pursuing a M.A. in Philippine Studies at the University of the Philippines-Diliman.

CONNIE J. MARAAN, fictionist, edits the publications of the Social Development Research Center of De La Salle University, where she has also taught fiction. She held the Henry Lee Irwin Chair in Creative Writing at the Ateneo de Manila University. She is the author of Transient: Stories 1977–1994.

VIM NADERA, poet, fictionist, playwright, essayist, and novelist, is assistant professor at the College of Arts and Letters, University of the Philippines, where he is pursuing Ph.D. in Philippine Studies and serves as director of the Institute of Creative Writing. He is secretary general of UMPIL, and sits in the National Commission on Culture and the Arts Committee on Literary Arts. He has researched on the use of poetry as therapy.

FRAN NG, fictionist and children's book illustrator, taught English at the Ateneo de Manila University and was editor-in-chief of Real Living magazine. Three of her children's books have won the National Book Award. The Brothers Wu and the Good Luck Eel was first in the Palanca. She received Ateneo's Mulry Award for Literary Excellence in 1996.

JOEY OGATIS, poet, teaches literature and Filipino at the University of the Philippines-Manila. He obtained his B.A. in English Studies and M.A. in Filipino Creative Writing from the University of the Philippines-Diliman. He is executive creative director of Iskolar Gear.

WILL P. ORTIZ, fictionist and poet, teaches in the Filipino Department of the University of the Philippines-Diliman.

JEMA M. PAMINTUAN, poet, is teaching in the Filipino Department, Ateneo de Manila University, and working toward a Ph.D. in Philippine Studies at the University of the Philippines-Diliman. She has published critical essays and reviews in Bulawan: Journal of Philippine Arts and Culture, Humanities Diliman, and Philippine Studies.

R. TORRES PANDAN, poet and fictionist, is dean of the College of Law of the University of St. La Salle and a partner in a law firm in Bacolod City. He was a fellow at two writers' workshops (Silliman and University of the Philippines) and a senior fellow at the University of St. La Salle Iyas Creative Writing Workshop.

CHUCKBERRY J. PASCUAL, fictionist, is in the M.A. in Philippine Studies program at the University of the Philippines-Diliman, where he obtained the B.A. in Creative Writing. He was a fellow in three national writers' workshops: University of Santo Tomas, Ateneo de Manila University, and the University of the Philippines.

WILFREDO O. PASCUAL JR., who writes creative nonfiction, is cloistered in a Buddhist monastery in Thailand, where, eleven years ago, he moved to work as publications officer of the Southeast Asia Ministers of Education Organization (SEAMEO). In 2002, he attended a New York University summer workshop and, in 2003, was a Breadloaf work study scholar.

VICTOR PEÑARANDA, poet, works in the Himalayan kingdom of Bhutan. He started writing poetry as a student at the Ateneo de Manila High School, and was actively involved with Philippine nongovernmental organizations.

ALLAN POPA, poet, teaches in the Filipino Department of the Ateneo de Manila University. The author of six books, he received National Book Awards for Poetry for Morpo (2001) and Samsara (2002), and the Philippines Free Press Literary Award for poetry in 1998–1999.

SAM PRUDENTE, poet, works as marketing officer and human resource management and development training officer in Iloilo City. He grew up in Papua New Guinea and Guam, but returned to the Philippines to rediscover his roots. He studied Biology and Performance in Theater Arts at the University of the Philippines-Diliman.

NONILON V. QUEAÑO, playwright, poet, and fictionist, has a Ph.D. in Comparative Literature and teaches in the Department of English and Comparative Literature of the University of the Philippines-Diliman. He is also a songwriter and a kulintang musician for Kinding Sindaw, a New York-based Filipino American cultural performing troupe.

CYMBELINE REFALDA-VILLAMIN, poet and essayist, is supervising science research specialist at the Science and Technology Information Institute and a contributor to HomeLife magazine. She obtained her Master's degree in Literature from the Ateneo de Manila University.

JOSÉ EDMUNDO OCAMPO REYES, poet, has degrees from the Ateneo de Manila University and Columbia University. His poems have appeared in Philippine- and U.S.-based journals such as Caracooa, Diliman Review, Hudson Review, Michigan Quarterly Review, Natural Bridge, and Philippines Free Press.

AGUSTIN MARTIN G. RODRIGUEZ, poet, is associate professor of philosophy at the Ateneo de Manila University. He has published research on social and political philosophy and studies on democratization and the political culture of the marginalized.

JOSEPH T. SALAZAR, poet, is instructor in the Filipino Department, Ateneo de Manila University. He is currently on a Nippon Foundation's Asian Public Intellectuals Fellowship, probing the cinematic spaces of Indonesia and Thailand.

EDGAR CALABIA SAMAR, poet and fictionist, has received Palanca awards for his poetry (2002 and 2004) and future fiction (2003), PBBY-Salanga Writer's Prize for his children's stories (2002 and 2004), and the Gawad Surian sa Tula for "Kung Bakit Tayo Nakikinig sa Alamat" (2004).

RENATO L. SANTOS, poet, recently retired as a banker. He is an alumnus of the Ateneo de Manila University (A.B. Economics, 1963, cum laude) and a Palanca awardee for Filipino poetry (2004).

VINCENZ SERRANO, poet, has coordinated the undergraduate program in Literature of the English Department, Ateneo de Manila University, since 2003. He earned his Master's degree in English Studies: Creative Writing from the University of the Philippines-Diliman in 2002.

EMENIANO ACAIN SOMOZA JR., aka M. N. Yano, writes creative nonfiction and is a copywriter. A disciple of Ayn Rand, he considers himself a romantic objectivist.

RAMÓN C. SUNICO, poet, editor, translator, and book designer, manages Cacho Publishing House. He is the current National Fellow for Poetry of the University of the Philippines Creative Writing Center, and was recently awarded the Gawad Alagad ni Balagtas by the Writers' Union of the Philippines.

ROLANDO B. TOLENTINO, who writes fiction and creative nonfiction, is acting director of the Film Institute at the University of the Philippines, where he was a former associate for fiction of the Institute of Creative Writing. He has published and co-edited books of fiction and critical essays on film and popular culture.

YAVANNA VALDELLON, poet and fictionist, has taught at the Department of English, Ateneo de Manila University, where, in 2002, she graduated with a degree in Creative Writing. She won the Maningning Miclat Award for Poetry in 2003 and the Palanca's first prize in poetry for Casual Ties in 2004.

CHARLIE SAMUYA VERIC, poet, critic, and translator, begins his doctoral studies at Yale University in the Fall semester of 2005. He co-edited with Alice Guillermo Suri at Sipat: Araling Ka Amado.

ALVIN B. YAPAN, fictionist, is instructor in the Filipino Department, Ateneo de Manila University, and a Ph.D. student, Philippine Studies, at the University of the Philippines-Diliman. His short stories have won Palanca awards in 1997, 2002, and 2003. He was a fellow in three writers' workshops: two by the University of the Philippines, and the first Heights.

LAWRENCE LACAMBRA YPIL, poet, is pursuing a Master's degree in English-Literary and Cultural Studies at the Ateneo de Manila University, where he also teaches poetry and writing. His poems have appeared in a number of local and overseas publications and anthologies.

KRIP YUSON, poet, fictionist, essayist, biographer, writer of stories for children, travel writer, and playwright—Luto, Linis, Laba (2005) is a full-length play in Filipino—teaches poetry and fiction at the Ateneo de Manila University, writes a column for The Philippine Star, and serves as chair of UMPIL and as member of the Movies and Television Review and Classification Board. The author of twenty books, he belongs to the Palanca Hall of Fame.