

Contributors

LEONARD CASPER is professor of English at Boston College. He has taught at the Ateneo and the University of the Philippines and has written many articles and books on Philippine literature in English.

LUIS Q. LACAR teaches in the College of Arts and Social Sciences, Mindanao State University-Iligan Institute of Technology. He is now in the United Kingdom doing intensive study of Islam and Arabic.

FRANCISCO A. MAGNO is an instructor in Political Science at the University of the Philippines. He is currently pursuing his doctorate in Political Science at the University of Hawaii under an East-West Center grant.

DAVID F. MARLEY is a Canadian historian specializing in Spanish maritime history. He is the author of the official catalogues for the Marina collection at the Mexican National Archives, as well as numerous other books. His most recent work is Pirates and Engineers: Dutch and Flemish Adventurers in New Spain, 1607-1697.

YOSHIKO NAGANO earned her Ph.D. from Hitotsubashi University, Tokyo and has two books in Japanese on Philippine sugar and Negros. She is currently affiliated with Faculty of Foreign Studies, Kanagawa University, Yokohama.

MARIA DEL CARMEN PAREJA ORTIZ has a licentiate in Philosophy and Letters from the University of Cordoba and a doctorate from the University of Navarra. She has lectured and written extensively on Spanish colonial history.

RODNEY ROSS teaches at Harrisburg Area Community College, Pennsylvania. He is doing research on Filipino reaction to the 1939 Hollywood film called The Real Glory.

E. SAN JUAN, JR., is professor of English and Comparative Literature at the University of Connecticut, Storrs. He received his graduate degrees from the University of the Philippines and Harvard University.